

OHIO INDIGENT NOT FORGOTTEN

Newspapers, Lodges and Civic Organizations Help Needy at Christmas.

BY W. C. PETERSON
Associated Press Staff Writer
COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 23.—Ohio, preparing for its most bountiful Christmas in half a decade, has loosened its purse strings and joined in a common effort to make the Yuletide more cheerful for her thousands of unfortunate.

In almost every city, numerous organized programs have been under way for weeks to provide toys for children of needy parents to give them a happy Christmas, to distribute thousands upon thousands of baskets filled with food, candy and gifts and in many cases to provide badly needed clothing and fuel.

Newspapers, lodges, the Salvation Army and charitable organizations of all kinds have joined forces to see that children of the poor are not entirely forgotten in some cities, federal works projects have provided families on relief with a minimum of Christmas cheer and reduced the charitable work needed.

Theater parties, galas, wrestling and boxing shows, basketball and football games all have done their part to help raise funds for the annual distribution of gifts and necessities.

Civic, patriotic and fraternal organizations at Athens, Xenia, Urbana, Steubenville, Coshocton, Washington, C. H. and Lima have arranged parties and will distribute toys to needy children. Baskets containing food, candy, clothes and clothing will be given away.

The Salvation Army and private organizations will provide for the poor in Friday, between 400 and 500 families in Hancock county faced a dismal Christmas until the legislature provided relief funds.

The Telegraph-Forum led a campaign at Bucyrus that resulted in raising $400 for poor school children. The response was much better than last year.

Marion plans a community Christmas party for approximately 2,500 children. Clubs have arranged separate parties for crippled children and orphan children. More than 100 baskets will be distributed.

Newark's central Christmas committee prepared 1,000 baskets of nuts, fruit, candy and toys. The Mountbuilders Homecrafters made 200 toys. The Newark branch of the Ohio Unemployed league plans to aid 300 families. Columbus firemen for months have repaired thousands of broken and discarded toys.

The Three Mustache-Cheers, an organization formed by the Mansfield News-Journal, American Legion and the Ohio theater, will distribute 1,200 baskets. A play and two boxing shows staged by inmates of the men's reformatory aided in raising approximately $1,800.

BUDGET, RELIEF STILL PENDING

Politicians Also Eye Borah's Announcement of Candidacy for G.O.P. Presidential Race.

By The Associated Press
COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 23.—A heavy atmosphere of problems—relief, finances, politics—hung low over Ohio today despite the opening of the Christmas holidays.

Members of the general assembly were almost all at home, but awaiting their return were urgent matters. Political leaders likewise awaited their Christmas trees with the complicating factor of Sen. William F. Borah's announcement of candidacy for the Republican presidential nomination well in mind.

Long delayed and bitterly contested final action on a revised budget bill seemed most urgent. Gov. Davey's $2,785,000 budget in the original bill has left most state departments and institutions without current operating funds with which to begin the new year.

May Need Efficiency Bill
Some legislative leaders said a deficiency appropriation might be necessary if the assembly were unable to pass a revised bill soon after Jan. 2. The two houses must not only agree between themselves; they must also act together in accordance with Gov. Davey's often repeated warning that he will veto any substantial increase after his first veto.

The present revised bill calls for reductions of $3,800,000. Another bill which may be offered reduces this figure to $3,200,000. Davey has set the limit at $3,000,000.

Davey's economy demands in relief administration seemed assured of attention. The emergency act appropriating $1,500,000 to 10 counties specifies that administrative costs must not exceed two per cent.

The federal emergency relief administration, frequently criticized by Davey, has a 10 per cent administrative cost. PERA officials said a two per cent allowance would not permit employment of case workers to insure thorough investigation of relief needs.

Permanent Setup Needed
A permanent relief program must be achieved before Jan. 31, the date of expiration of the emergency act. That too, observers predicted, would contain a two per cent limitation.

Reliable political sources predicted meanwhile that Senator Borah would decide soon whether or not to fight for an Ohio delegation to the Republican national convention in Cleveland next June.

Under the plans of the Republican state central committee, the delegation will be unstructured, a "favorite son" body of 52 with no strings attached. The committee sought to avoid a primary fight for delegates.

Another political development watched closely by the G. O. P. in Ohio is the scheduled appearance here Dec. 27 of another possible nominee—Col. Frank Knox, editor of the Chicago Daily News.

Col. Knox will speak before the annual dinner of the Ohio Republican editorial association.

LINDBERGH'S LEAVE TO LIVE IN ENGLAND

bodyguards for the infant and to surround his movements with utmost secrecy.

Since coming into world prominence after his New York to Paris flight in 1927, the formerly unknown "Slim" Lindbergh, air mail pilot, has constantly sought for a return of some semblance of the anonymity that was previously his. Unlike most other celebrated figures of his day, Lindbergh has attempted to avoid public notice. The kidnapping of his child was a tragedy that lifted his name again into black headlines and made it once more a matter of daily conversation throughout the country.

The "dream home" at Hopewell, N. J., has been deserted almost since the spring days of 1932 when police, detectives and federal agents were there seeking clues to the crime committed in the little upstairs nursery.

House No Longer Desirable
Reminded as it was of great tragedy, the house was no longer desirable to the Lindberghs as a home. The colonel's counsel later announced that the estate was being given over as a center for child welfare work, and was to be known as "Highfield." Details of the property transfer, however, were not disclosed. Nothing has yet not permit a general increase, but that adjustments would be made for individuals where necessary. All employees were to be taken back without discrimination.

Similar offers had been advanced previously, but the unions rejected them because they felt the endorsement of company officials was needed.

Violence broke out Nov. 20 when non-striking employees attempted to return to work. Several days later Sheriff James Flower, Jr., ordered the factory closed. He rescinded the order about 10 days ago.

carried him to his house and his wife went to the home of former Police Captain Ira Shuck, a few doors north on Blaine avenue, to call an ambulance and police. Mr. and Mrs. Shuck returned with her to the Drake home. The W. C. Boyd ambulance rushed the boy to the hospital, but he was dead when it arrived there.

Despite the tragedy the Dawson home is to have the Christmas tree Hubert picked out. Mr. Dawson expressed that desire and Mr. Drake delivered the tree this morning. It was to be decorated by members of the family this afternoon.

Robert was a pupil in the third grade at Olney Avenue school. His father, Ollis Dawson, was employed, until recently, as a sweeper operator in the city service department.

PLANT IN BARBERTON OPENS AFTER STRIKE

Operations Renewed After Union Accepts Terms Calling for Wage Discussions.

By The Associated Press
AKRON, O., Dec. 23.—Workers hastened to the Ohio Insulator plant in Barberton today with the promise of jobs as their Christmas present after settlement of a three-month strike.

Operations were to be resumed as fast as men could be assigned to work, said company officials, expressing hopes that all of the 80 employees could be at their places before the holiday Wednesday.

Union pottery workers, who walked out Sept. 18, accepted peace terms outlined in a letter from George L. Draffan, executive vice president, to Ralph Lind, of the regional labor board.

The company agreed to meet with any committee of employees to discuss wages, hours and working conditions and to follow seniority rules. The union had asked wage increases. Draffan said competitive conditions would

MISHAP FATAL TO 14 CHECKED

Officials Order Autopsy of Bus Driver After Plunge Through Open Drawbridge.

By The Associated Press
HOPEWELL, N. J., Dec. 23.—Officials ordered an autopsy today to check the possibility that the driver of an Atlantic Greyhound bus was dead before the machine plunged 14 persons to an icy death in Appomattox river through an open drawbridge. An inquest was ordered for Thursday.

Shortly after the bus was raised last night, D. D. McAfee, district superintendent for the bus line at Raleigh, N. C., said:

"I can't believe that boy was alive when the bus went over."

He said the driver, L. G. Alford, 38, of Five Points, N. C., had been employed six years, with five years' prior experience. He had an excellent record, McAfee said.

Arthur Clark, Richmond photographer, said the machine's brakes were fully set when it was hauled from the water 12 hours after the accident yesterday.

Commonwealth's Attorney John T. Goodman planned a thorough investigation into the cause.

The identified dead were announced as follows:

Mrs. Anne W. Duncan of Pittsboro, N. C.

L. G. Alford, 38, of Five Points, N. C.

Mrs. J. W. Massey of Hopewell.

Mrs. John B. Belch of Hopewell.

Mrs. T. H. Fairfax of Superior, Wis.

Mrs. Ruby Matthews of Richmond.

Americans in London Say It's Business Trip

LONDON, Dec. 23.—Responsible American sources today expressed the belief that Col. Charles A. Lindbergh was coming to England with his family on business rather than as an escape from kidnappers.

These sources said they believed the famous aviator was likely to take up residence in England in connection with the forthcoming establishment of trans-Atlantic air service.

Col. Lindbergh is technical adviser of Pan-American Airways, in company with Mrs. Lindbergh, he flew the Atlantic twice in 1933, surveying possible far northern and far southern routes for the American airline—the line which already is flying its big clipper ships across the Pacific.

TRENTON, N. J., Dec. 23.—William Conklin, press atty. to Gov. Harold G. Lindbergh in his decision to leave this country and establish a residence in England.

The governor was not expected at his office at all today.

BLIND U. S. SENATOR DIES FROM INJURIES

Passing of Schall Seen as Spur to Efforts to Halt Auto Deaths.

By The Associated Press
WASHINGTON, Dec. 23.—The passing of Sen. Thomas David Schall, blind 56-year-old Republican from Minnesota, who died yesterday from injuries suffered when he was hit by a motor car, appeared certainly today to spur efforts to curb the automobile accident menace.

Coming as it did on the same day when 14 persons lost their lives in the plunge of a bus through an open drawbridge at Hopewell, Va., the death served to emphasize the rising tide of automobile accidents, which took 36,000 lives last year.

Sen. Borah of Idaho said, "I wonder how long this reckless destruction to life will go on?" and it seemed likely that more would be heard on the subject at the coming session of congress.

The death of Schall, a flaming critic of the new deal, also created uncertainty in the political situation in Minnesota. He had intended to seek reelection to the senate against Gov. Floyd B. Olson, Farmer-Laborite, who is a candidate. Political observers in Minnesota wondered who will be chosen now as Olson's opponent in the 1936 race. As for the inexperienced term, Olson said he had no intention of having himself appointed to fill out. He said he would name a successor to Schall soon.

Schall was struck down Thursday night as he attempted to cross a highway on the arm of his secretary, near his home in a Maryland suburb of the capital. He died at 11:31 a. m. yesterday, without regaining consciousness. His injuries included a fractured skull, a crushed leg and internal fractures.

Vice President Garner and Speaker Byrnes will name a committee to attend the funeral of the blind legislator who had served almost two decades in senate and house. The body will start from here tomorrow for Minneapolis, where the funeral will be held at 2:30 p. m. Thursday, with burial in Lakewood cemetery.

At the funeral will be the survivors: the widow, two sons, Richard and Thomas Jr., and a daughter, Paget Ann.

Encephalitis.

Encephalitis often referred to as sleeping sickness is a rare but serious affliction. The disease is called "sleeping sickness" because among the prominent symptoms are the periods of lethargy or profound sleep. In an unusual case instead of sleep there may be an inability to close the eyes.

As a rule the disease appears in epidemic form attacking over a wide front. The last epidemic of importance was that in St. Louis in 1933.

Recent epidemics have been made up of mild cases. This is fortunate because as yet there is no specific or worthwhile treatment nor any known means of prevention. Our only means of protection at present is to keep the victim of encephalitis away from others and to act immediately upon recognition of the infection.

In its early stages the disease may be confused with influenza, typhoid fever, malaria or tuberculosis of the central nervous system. In children the affliction is sometimes mistaken for infantile paralysis, meningitis or some other form of encephalitis.

During the recent epidemic in St. Louis it was often impossible to make an accurate diagnosis until the patient was subjected to numerous laboratory tests. Such symptoms as fever, nausea, headache, stiff neck or stiffness of the spine should arouse suspicion of encephalitis.

To confirm the diagnosis the doctor will make examination of the spinal fluid. This fluid is obtained by puncturing the spinal canal. It sounds rather terrible but really it is a simple procedure. This is often made use of to detect other nervous afflictions such as infantile paralysis, tuberculosis of the nervous system and meningitis.

In sleeping sickness the spinal fluid is found to be under increased pressure. It is clear but shows a marked increase in its content of pus cells.

Until discovery is made of the actual cause of encephalitis, our only weapons of defense against the disease are cleanliness, good hygiene and strict quarantine of all suspected cases. Victims of this infection are best cared for at a hospital. Here they will receive constant medical and nursing care. In addition it is easier to maintain the quarantine.

The Stars Say--

For Tuesday Dec. 24

According to the lunar and mutual aspects this day is likely to be a very exciting and eventful one with much in the way of friendship and social activity. An important change seems imminent, this having a far reaching effect on conditions. It might be advisable to keep a curb on exciting situations as hasty and reckless doings might prove detrimental to this good fortune. Be careful with strangers.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a year of great change having an important if not radical bearing on the future life and fortunes. It may be a year of much excitement and commotion all favorable if not too recklessly embraced. Be careful with strangers and of secret machinations.

A child born on this day may be versatile, ingenious and skillful in unusual lines. It is destined to rise to high place in the public eye.

WEDDINGS

Miss Goldie Marie Colegrove, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer E. Colegrove of 516 Lee street became the bride of Harold L. Garwood of Marion Saturday afternoon at 5 o'clock at the Epworth M. E. church parsonage on East Center street. Rev. Franklin G.

Markley, pastor, read the single ring ceremony.

Mrs. Elsworth Colegrove was the maid of honor and Mr. Colegrove, half-brother of the bride, was the best man.

The bride wore a crepe dress of national blue, with two rhinestone buckles fastening the high neckline. The wide sleeves were faced in white. Her accessories were in black and her only decoration was a yellow gold bracelet belonging to her mother. She wore a corsage of violets and tearosa buds. Mrs. Colegrove was in a midnight blue crepe dress with black accessories. A 6 o'clock wedding dinner was served at the home of the bride's parents, at a table centered with a large wedding cake. Appointments were in the bride's colors of pink and green. Covers were laid for Mr. and Mrs. Leon Garwood, Mrs. Clara Haer, Mrs. Lester Garwood and Donald Garwood of near Marion, Mr. and Mrs. Elsworth Colegrove, the guests of honor and the hosts.

Mrs. Garwood was graduated from Harding high school in 1923. Mr. Garwood, a graduate of the Morray high school, is employed at the Fleet-Wing Service station on West Center street.

Mr. and Mrs. Garwood are at home at their apartment at 478 East Center street.

The bride's dress was of powder

New Between Holiday Recipes from Mrs. Thurn

Marion: Have plenty of whatever is served; let guests serve themselves. The one hot dish may be a chafing dish of creamed chicken or creamed sea food, or a cheese mixture; or it may be an escaloped cut served in the casserole from the oven or it may be something such as sausage and eggs cooked on the grill in the dining room.

I am giving here some new dishes which are suggested on the menu for these occasions. Toasted Frankfurter Rolls For six people, have six large soft round rolls or buns, buttered; six slices ripe tomato; sliced and peppered; six frankfurters cut in halves lengthwise; two teaspoons prepared mustard.

Split the rolls, place a slice of tomato on one half of roll, spread the split frankfurter with the mustard and lay on tomato. Fasten the other half of the roll in place with little wooden picks. Place under the broiler until hot and browned a little.

Another Version Another version of this toasted sandwich is use the same kind of large, round and buttered rolls; one pint drained sausage; six large frankfurters; mustard pickle. Line the rolls with sausage-kraut and place a frankfurter in each roll. Toast the rolls in the broiler. Serve garnished with mustard pickle.

Dutch Treat Two and a half cups steamed sweet potatoes, or cooked, mashed sweet potatoes; one and one-half cups thinly sliced tart apples; one half cup brown sugar; three tablespoons butter; three fourths teaspoon salt. Combine apples, potatoes and sugar with butter and salt. And place in a baking dish rubbed with fat. Lay frankfurters on top of the potatoes and apples and cover. Bake twenty minutes in a hot oven, 400 degrees F. or set under a broiler flame for about the same length of time. Through for six.

French Appetizer Three tablespoons finely chopped meat loaf of any delicious smoked sausage; two tablespoons chopped chives; one half teaspoon minced parsley; six large peach halves (firm, canned peaches); grated Parmesan cheese and cream cheese; seedless white grapes or halves of mini cherries. Combine the meat loaf, chives and parsley mix well and fill peach halves. Have very cold. Garnish with a piping of cheese cream cheese mixed with the Parmesan. Top with cherry or grape. Serve six.

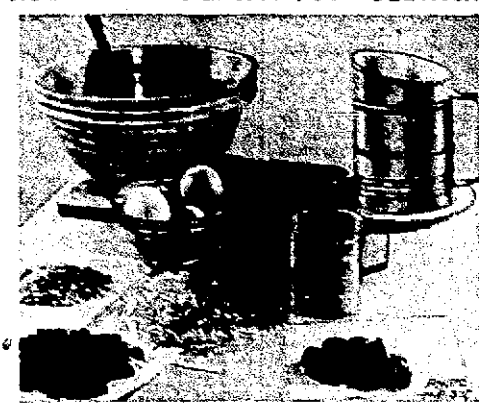

New Stuffed Celery Twelve slender green onions, or tiny pickled onions; twelve small pieces of celery; two tablespoons finely chopped onion; one tablespoon cream cheese; one tablespoon Roquefort cheese; one teaspoon pimiento; one teaspoon chopped parsley.

Place one onion in each piece of celery. Combine the other ingredients and fill the stalks of celery covering the onion with the cheese mixture. Sprinkle a little chopped parsley on each.

Sausage and Shrimp Canape Two tablespoons finely chopped smoked dry sausage; two tablespoons Roquefort cheese; six narrow strips of pumpernickle bread toasted; twelve cooked and cleaned shrimp; lemon wedges; parsley. Mix cheese and sausage. Spread on pumpernickle. Place two shrimp on each piece of bread. Garnish with a wedge of lemon and a sprinkle of parsley.

Cheese Canape Twelve oblong cheese crackers; one half cup finely chopped Italian sausage; twelve pickled onions; one fourth pound grated American cheese. Cover the center of the crackers

HOLIDAY CAKE EASILY PUT TOGETHER

Follow the recipe given below for a delicious and unusual cake to serve for holiday parties. Tender and full of fruit, it is a perfect cake to serve with tea, coffee, any hot drink, or with a frozen dessert.

CHOCOLATE FRUIT CAKE This cake and the two long recipes are valuable additions to your culinary library, as guests to add to any menu. They are particularly appropriate for week-end and holiday parties now in season.

One half cup shortening; one cup sugar; two eggs; one cup thick milk-milk; one and one half cups pastry flour; two tablespoons cocoa; one and one half teaspoons baking powder; one half teaspoon salt; one third cup milk; one third cup pecans.

Blend shortening, add sugar and mix thoroughly. Add eggs one at a time and beat well. Then put in the hot milk-milk. Sift flour, cocoa, baking powder and salt together and add to the mixture alternately with the milk. Stir in the coarsely chopped pecans. Pour into a well greased glass loaf pan, five cup size. Cover with the glass lid and bake in a moderate oven, 350 degrees F., for one hour.

JELLY ICING Two teaspoons hot water; one egg white; two and one half cups sifted confectioner's sugar; two teaspoons fresh lemon juice; one teaspoon grated orange rind.

Add the water to the unbeaten egg white. Beat until stiff and gradually add sugar until proper consistency to spread with. Add flavorings and beat well. This may be kept in the refrigerator for several days and used as needed.

VELVET ICING Two squares unrefined chocolate; one tablespoon hot water; one egg; two thirds cup confectioner's sugar; one fourth cup fat; one half teaspoon vanilla. Melt chocolate in the top part of the double boiler. Add water, then the well beaten egg, and sugar. Remove from the heat but let the mixture stand over the hot water. And stir constantly until thick. Cool quickly until lukewarm. Add fat and vanilla and blend thoroughly. When stored in a well-covered dish, this icing may be kept in the refrigerator for several days.

SENDS GREETINGS Marion Resident Of 36 Years Ago Sends Message.

To his Marion friends of 36 years ago, Christian Bondy who is now in Los Angeles, Calif., sends Christmas greetings.

Older residents of Marion will remember Mr. Bondy as the barber at the old Kerr House. The greetings were sent in a holiday letter to his nephew, E. R. Bondy of 285 Monroe street.

The Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

YOUR STAG-SMILE Have you got your stag-smile ready? For this is the season of smiles, when you may need it at any moment.

Not all the "stag-smiles" are those of the vaudeville team, who grin at the same old sawnicks and smile at each other and the audience after 10 years as though they had just met for the first time.

Not those of the screen star, all of whom seem bent on looking like an advertisement for a popular tooth-paste, the moment they face the camera. Not those of the beauty queen whom, about to receive the loving-cup, Nor those of the sketchy-draped chorine in the floor show.

Not those of young lovers, trying eagerly to out-smile each other in the effort to show their brightest and most charming side. Not those of the "free-will" who always greets her husband with a "welcome home" smile. Not those of the woman who is determined to be "sprightly" and "ditsy" forever.

Everybody has a stag-smile ready to be taken out and put on at a moment's notice—a smile as hardy and as useful as a lipstick. For instance, there are all the holiday smiles—most of them spontaneous and joyful, but some of them as set and inflexible as any stag-smile in the two-days.

There is the rush-hour smile of the saleswoman, who tries to forget her aching feet and the clock in her back, as she shows you some glittering bauble and strives to put the "holiday spirit" into her smiling-talk.

And there is the friendly smile of the third postman as he goes from door to door, handing out cards and parcels. A nice man, the postman who always smiles, even when he only rings once.

And the old, roguish smile of the weary hostess, who thanks God that Christmas comes but once a year, but is determined to be gay, if it kills her!

And the sprightly but brilliant smile of the girl who tries to out-smile even the Dresden clock or the silk umbrella from her unimaginative friend, when she had been dreaming of something sentimental and personal, like a jeweled bangle with her initials on it or at least a gold vanity case.

And the tragic, glittering smile of the girl who has been left in all out a dance, alone, at the holiday party. And the icy smile of the waiter who has not received an extra tip. And the forced smile of the house-maid or the cook, who got "a box of pretty handkerchiefs" instead of the expected $10 bill.

Oh yes, there are unexpected moments when everybody needs a stag-smile, which can be "pulled" as quickly as a gun, and adjusted as easily as a mask. You may leave your powder-puff at home—but never go anywhere without your stag-smile handy!

Suspense.

The superiority of anticipation over realization is manifest again as the time for the supreme court's decisions on new deal legislation draws nearer. Instead of growing more nervous, as it should, the country seems to have adjusted itself to a conviction that the heavens are not going to fall and that the day after the court finds some controversial act unconstitutional life will move along about as usual.

Some of this complacency in the country's attitude can be traced, no doubt, to the fact that the day after the court ruled unfavorably on the national recovery act in the Schechter case life moved on as usual. In a week, the sharp edge of excitement had worn off. In a month, bold spirits were daring to jibe at the prophets of gloom. Somehow or other, the country survived.

Perhaps this is nothing but a complicated way of saying that the United States took the first major judicial reversal of new deal legislation in its stride.
Americans like to believe they are politically superior to the excitable Latin and the bigoted Briton. They like to think of themselves as citizens who act upon logic, but never upon passion. They want to believe they have established and are supporting a government of laws, above the influence of temporary character and influence.

At any rate, the country is showing fewer of the signs of nervous suspense a few weeks before the time when the supreme court will rule on one or more of the vital new deal cases before it than could be seen at the end of the latest congressional session. Along with confidence, the United States has recovered some of the poise which has distinguished it from other nations in political thinking and acting.

For Example.

In the failure of NRA to disappear from the Washington scene observers have pointed out many times the tendency in bureaucracy for every jobholder to survive once he is attached to the public payroll.

On Friday, President Roosevelt announced that NRA finally was to be broken up. Its remains, he said, will be distributed among several existing agencies.
The formerly huge agency expires legally April 1, 1936.

According to reports, NRA now has 1,250 employees. Naturally, the public wonders what will become of them. Surely, they won't be thrown out of work in the middle of the winter.

In accordance with the law of survival in bureaucracy, the survivors of NRA will be taken care of. Conspicuous in the announcement of the agency's demise is the plan to "lend out" its employees to other federal agencies, which will pay their wages until something turns up.

Uncle Sam's Credit Rating.

Ever since President Roosevelt commented in his speech at Atlanta on the possibility the national debt could increase as much as 100 per cent before it became too large, certain persons have been engaged in a futile kind of speculation. How many billions of indebtedness, they are asking each other, could the United States pile up without being in acute danger of a financial collapse?

Probably the most generous estimate that will be made comes from that ebullient economist, Prof. Irving Fisher of Yale. Prof. Fisher, chiding the alarmists who are apparently trying to conduct a campaign of fear by talking about the size of the present national debt, says he wouldn't be scared if the debt grew to $125,000,000,000, approximately four times its present size.

"Prof. Fisher comforts himself with knowledge that the English public debt is $900 per capita, compared with an American figure of only $395. Furthermore, American income is greater and American taxation is smaller. Therefore, the professor reasons, the American public debt is not too large and it wouldn't be too large if it were infinitely higher than anybody believes it over is going to be.

Prof. Fisher overlooks one thing which has no direct connection with economics.
That is the fact that the point of safety in public indebtedness is determined by popular feeling, not by mathematics. A public debt only half the size of the present one would be unsafe if the public lacked confidence in the financial integrity of the government. When Americans talk about the public debt being too large, they have in mind its relation to the prevailing impression among the people, not to the measuring sticks of the economists and statisticians.

Another Kind of Relief.

The state legislature is through legislating for 1935, but it will be back in Columbus Jan. 2, before most of the members have had time to forget how much fun they had on New Year's eve.

In its most recent meeting the legislature appropriated $1,500,000 to finance relief needs of counties which had failed to make other provisions. It cleaned up odds and ends of legislation, but left one or two, thereby necessitating another special session next month.

Ohio is well aware of the unusual problems which confront the legislature. It grants that the problem of relief, alone, is difficult enough to warrant weeks of extra activity. But it is another kind of relief which the state would like to have in 1936.

It would like to have relief from a situation in which nothing ever seems to be done efficiently by the assembly. It would like to have relief from a formula of legislating which always leaves something half completed. It would like to have relief from a condition which seems to keep members of the legislature continuously on route to and from the capital.

Obviously, if all members of the assembly were opposed to a multitude of special sessions, there would be fewer special sessions. That tends the suspicion that legislators may be more interested in many special sessions than in few special sessions. There follows naturally from that suspicion another suspicion that something in the financial arrangements pertaining to special session provides a motive for having so many of them.

Public Servant.

The resignation of Frank C. Walker as executive director of the national emergency council brings to attention the name of a man who has been a faithful public servant in the Roosevelt administration.
Mr. Walker's personal devotion to Mr.
Roosevelt never has been questioned. He has been described numerous times as the President's most loyal friend.

Yet, Mr. Walker, despite his prominence in the inner circle of presidential acquaintances, has attained no personal prominence as an administrator. He has been a sort of coordinator in chief, yet the public doesn't know what, if anything, he has coordinated. He is supposed to have exceptional qualifications as an administrator, yet he has not seemed to sparkle in any of the positions he has occupied.

This is a mystery which may be explained later on, perhaps when Mr. Walker becomes postmaster general or secretary of commerce. For the present, it is interesting to note his reason for resigning from public service. He must give all his time to private business for a while. That is a common reason for the resignations of men who must depend on their own income for a living. It brings home to the United States once more the handicap under which it labors because it lacks a professional class of public servants—men who are equipped by training and interest to administer public affairs. If Mr. Walker as valuable to the Roosevelt administration as he is said to be, he is too valuable to lose.

Temptation.

Americans have been duly impressed by statistics on the two largest boats in the world, the Normandie and the Queen Mary.
The former has been in service for the greater part of a year. The latter will make her first voyage next year.

With the two ships, France and England feel they have upheld their national honor against Germany and Italy, both of which have made impertinent challenges for Atlantic supremacy the last few years with new, fast luxury liners. It is strictly a matter of nationalistic competition.

The Normandie, which has satisfied French pride at the expense of the French pocketbook, is the greatest ship in service.
Unfortunately, however, statistics showing the vessel's superiority are deficient in one respect. In them there is no mention of how much money the Normandie, which has been sailing with only a handful of passengers, is losing.

The Queen Mary, when she is placed in service, will be no more fortunate in this respect. Eventually, the English boat and the French boat may justify their cost, but at the moment they are nothing more than expensive advertisements. Keeping up with the Joneses applies to countries as well as to families.

The United States, which hasn't cut much of a figure on the sea since the days of the New England sailing ships, is not immune to temptation, of course. It merely happens that this country hasn't been willing in the past to spend public money on ships as freely as its neighbors. But all things change, and rumors that the United States is ready to dish out the millions to build a superliner are easy to believe. In days like these a few millions spent for ships wouldn't be noticed. Anything less than a boat as large as the Normandie and Queen Mary combined, with the Rex and Bremen hanging over the sides for life-boats, will be a disappointment.

Borah at Forefront in G. O. P. Picture

Entry Into Presidential Primaries One of Most Important Political Developments in Long Time.

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22.—Sen. Borah may well become the strongest factor in the influencing of the next Republican national convention.

The Idaho senator's decision to enter the presidential preference primaries in Wisconsin is really the most important event in the national political situation for many a day. It marks the beginning of a genuine fight to liberalize the Republican party. And regardless of whether one agrees with Mr. Borah's own views on public questions, the fact remains that, single-handed, he has undertaken to make the Republican party a better instrumentality, if possible, for the use of progressive-minded voters who are dissatisfied with the Roosevelt regime.

To date, all the news from Republican quarters, with the exception of the "grass roots" convention earlier this year, has emanated from the so-called regulars, who are, of course, in possession of the machinery of the party. In every political battle, organization is important and there are evidences that the organizing is being done earlier than is customary in a presidential campaign and with a great deal more efficiency.

Usually, a national campaign waits on the conventions. The national chairman is picked after the conventions, when the nominee makes known his wishes. When, as is the case with Mr. Roosevelt and as was the case with Mr. Wilson, the nomination is assured, there is an opportunity for the party in power to select its campaign manager and begin intensive work long before the conventions.

It is this circumstance which has forced the Republican organization to get to work early. But the campaign against Mr. Roosevelt thus far has been largely of a negative character and there has been little disposition to discuss a constructive platform. Sen. Borah senses this weakness and is trying to crystallize sentiment in the country behind what he calls a liberal platform and a liberal candidate.

While it will naturally be suspected that Mr. Borah wants to win for himself, it is not a conclusive inference by any means that he is primarily interested in his own candidacy.
Sen. Borah feels that the new deal, although doing some useful things, has committed some grave errors in public policy which are by no means outweighed by the good things in its program. Hence, he is out in front now to see that the principles he believes in are made a part of the Republican platform.

While some of the regular Republicans who have never had much fondness for Mr. Borah may not like his aggressive initiative, they will probably learn some day that he has been of great service to the Republican party, at least by attempting to give it a progressive color at a time when the mood of the country has swung considerably away from standstillism.

The danger in the Republican strategy today is that the widespread criticism of the new deal and such things as the Literary Digest poll, showing much anti-new deal sentiment, will develop the impression that an American conservatism of the old-fashioned type has arisen. No greater mistake could be made by the Republican leadership than to assume the pendulum swings from extreme radicalism to extreme conservatism in a short time.
The year 1936 will see a good many voters anxious to have new deal objectives fulfilled, however they may feel about the inefficiency of the Roosevelt administration in attempting to fulfill its own objectives.

Mr. Borah is a good campaigner, and Gov. Landon says out of the primaries and does not become an active candidate.
A policy his friends have been urging upon him—then Mr. Borah may actually demonstrate in primary elections that he has voting-giving capacity. His speeches will, in a sense, express his ideas of what the platform should be. If the Republicans in a number of states cast their ballots for Mr. Borah, it will be a sign that progressivism has a strong hold on the country.
There has been a feeling heretofore that Mr. Hoover would be found opposing Mr.
Borah in public debate. Certainly, Mr.
Hoover is not anxious to be classed as a conservative, however his critics may desire to put him in that category. He, like Mr. Borah, uses the term liberal to describe his own philosophy of government.

The Democrats would like to see a rift between conservative and progressive forces in the Republican party because it will enable them to taunt their opponents. But even this exposure to enemy bombardment is relatively less important to the Republicans than the crystallization of sentiment for a liberal platform that will justify voters, who believe in the underlying objectives of the new deal, in reaching the conclusion that reform and recovery can both be attained within the Constitution and without the enormous expenditure of public funds. That's the Republican job and Mr. Borah has tackled a real job in trying to translate that sentiment into practical terms of platform-making.

Neighborhood History

EARLY SETTLERS

The first settler near Mt. Gilead in Morrow county was Lewis Hardsbrook, who with his brother Ralph arrived in that section in 1817. They built a cabin on the 160 acres of land immediately south of Mt.
Gilead, which includes the Morrow county fairgrounds and the hills beyond. Their father, Lodwick Hardsbrook, a soldier of the Revolution, had entered the land from the United States.

Asa Mosher and Jonathan Wood arrived in what is now Morrow county in 1818 and settled about two miles south of the location of Mt. Gilead. They were accompanied by their large families, and were the pioneer settlers of the Quaker settlement. Isaac DeWitt moved to Morrow county in 1819 and was afterwards killed in his own house by lightning.

Behind the News

Men and Affairs Under The Washington Spotlight.

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, Dec. 23.—Of course, it will have to be denied officially now, but the administration will probably ask congress next month to revise or repeal the silver purchase act. This intimation may appear astounding, with the elections coming on, and all, but the topmost minds are trending strongly that way.

The act has been something of a silver straitjacket to them. It is stiffly mandatory. They cannot wiggle. The squeeze upon Treasury Secretary Morgenthau, about a month ago, could not have been tighter if the so-called silver nations were pulling the strings on him in torturing collusion.

There are lofty suspicions here that this is exactly what happens. Any official in the know would need only one guess as to which nation pulled the biggest string.

Reasoning

The influence of silver senators and Father Coughlin will undoubtedly be courted in whatever is ultimately decided officially. Continued protection for domestic producers may be sought. But as far as the international aspects are concerned, the experiences of the last few months have been too aggravating to be overlooked by the authorities here.

Economic results promised by the international purchases have proved to be impossible of fulfillment. Instead of helping Chinese purchasing power, for instance, the policy has pushed or opened the way for China to be led off silver.

Also, the policy has served its main practical purpose; namely,
to buy off domestic inflationists
as cheaply as possible.

Borah

The news about Senator Borah's entry into the Wisconsin primary leaked out prematurely. It was to have been announced four days later. This explains why no official statement was issued by him until the next day.

Wisconsin is not the only state
Mr. Borah will enter. That state came first because the invitation was pressed upon him. Also because there was good ground to believe no opposition ticket would be put into the field against him.

Similar invitations now are being arranged in some of the twelve other states where primaries will be held.

Gold Fleece

President Roosevelt told this hitherto unpublished yarn on himself to a friend the other day:

The annual supreme court dinner at the White House last year was held a time when the great devaluation clause was under consideration by the court. It so happened that the dinner was served on the famous White House gold embroidered plates.

Mr. Roosevelt noted the opportunity for a chance remark on the appropriateness of gold embroidery upon plates provided for the honorable court.

Just about five justices laughed
—but the other, probably four,
drew their lips tightly together and declined to smile.

War Scare No. 1
No inner surprise was felt at the Soviet-Japanese border clashes. Our boys received advance word that tension was increasing in outer Mongolia and that border incidents were likely. The answer to it is that the clash area is a Communist stronghold at the moment.
Japan does not like that near its puppet empire of Manchukuo.

The Japanese have been trying to buy off Mongol leaders without much success. They always try buyoffs next.

No. 2
The Pittman speech in Nevada, about the same time, sounded like a second alarm to a Japanese United States war. No one here responded to that one either.

While Senator Pittman is chairman of the foreign relations committee, he spoke on that occasion without official prompting and

TEN YEARS AGO

It was Wednesday, Dec. 23, 1925.
Marion's new milk code regulating the handling of all dairy products within the city limits went into effect with Dr. J. T.
Gruber, city milk and meat in-

Trains running through Marion

Funeral services for Frank A.
Munsey, magazine and newspaper publisher, who died in New York City Tuesday, were set for Thursday to take place in the Cathedral of St. John, New York. The estate of Mr. Munsey, a bachelor, was set at between $25,000,000 and

Mitchell's eight-year-old daughter, rescued her six-months-old sister,

TWENTY YEARS AGO

It was Thursday, Dec. 23, 1915.
Emperor William of Germany was reported critically ill. Private advice from Berlin conveyed the news that he was in bed with a high fever and under the care of two specialists.

A Paris dispatch reported that for a week the mightiest artillery quell of the war had been raging, in West Flanders. There, the ghost of what once was a beautiful city, had again been raked by the fire of German guns.

Funeral services for former County Auditor Jay Spaulding were set for Friday at his late home on East Columbia street.
Mr. Spaulding's death had occurred Wednesday.

The feature picture at the Mar-

New York's best known model is

Frank R. Wilson, who has been posing more than 40 years, working for all the well-knowns and helping many beginners with his intelligent understanding. He is the original of innumerable fiction characters—the Sherlock Holmes for Frederick Dorr Steele, the Blackie Daw and Gai Rich-Quick Willingford for Charles E.
Chambers, and for 33 years has been the celebrated Mr. Tutt for Arthur William Brown. Wilson is now in his 60's and a year ago a gangrenous infection cost him a leg above the knee. Without an artificial limb, work was impossible in his line. So an artist for whom he had worked started "The Wilson Foundation" and the mechanical leg was secured by donations. He now moves about with the spryness of Herbert Marshall.

The New York Enquirer, the only Sunday afternoon paper printed in America, is conducted by six Griffin brothers, all natives of Wheaton, Ill., which gave the world Red Grange. The sole owner of the stock is William, who came to town in 1925 and launched the sheet, his brothers—Marcus, John, Alexis, Gerald and Norbert—coming along one at a time. They are all pals as well as brothers and probably one of the happiest newspaper families anywhere.

Ernest Hemingway's boon companion on recent New York explorations was Ben Finney, a survivor of that glossy guild tagged men-about-town. A southerner, Finney has for years been a citizen of the world, at home promanaging the Shanghai Bund or surf bathing at Pago Pago. And is even better known in such near capitals as London, Berlin and Paris. At times he hawks down yonder hams, a new brand of coffee or runs one of the Saturday night celebrity dances. But the main business is to live robustly and for the day.

I've watched the click of a perlute store in the neighborhood, the sort called a chemist's shop with window displays such as a single bar of $2 foot black soap nestling in a billowy twirl of white satin. The manager is a sleek young modern careerist who has managed a neat trick. On second visit he calls one by name. New York loves that.

Sta-Tite Piston Rings Restore New Car Performance To Old Autos

Automotive Supply Co. Dealers in This Area

Parts So Built That They Fit Perfectly in Worn Cylinder Walls.

Repowering of an automobile means restoring new car performance. After an old car has traveled 20,000 miles or more, no longer performs as efficiently, economically and satisfactorily as it did when new. Usually an examination shows the true losses in efficiency are due to piston rings and cylinder walls being worn to the point where the engine needs repowering.

The Sealed Power Corporation's new Sta-Tite piston rings are built to restore new car performance. They are built to fit perfectly in worn cylinder walls, and they are built to last. They are built to restore new car performance to old autos.

Such a ring functions with extreme efficiency in a true cylinder bore. However, the very qualities which make it function in a true cylinder bore prevent it from functioning efficiently in a tapered or out-of-round cylinder.

In designing Sta-Tite piston rings for repowering engines with tapered out-of-round or heat distorted cylinders, Sealed Power engineers developed a ring without built-in tension. Sta-Tite rings have practically no tendency to expand outward toward the cylinder wall by themselves. Instead they are designed to make up for the wear in the cylinder wall by their own elasticity.

This combination of an inert tension-free ring backed by a special Swedish steel spring proved to be the greatest single step that had yet been taken in cutting the cost of repowering cars no longer new.

But good as this type ring proved to be, the Sealed Power corporation went further and incorporated two other tremendous improvements. One is the Monitor No. 4. The other is the Super Drainoil design oil ring.

In ordinary expansion or spring type rings offered by others at the present time, there is an inherent and costly weakness known as gap end flutter, which means that the ends of the ring flutter and permit power to escape past them.

The Monitor No. 4 in Sta-Tite rings controls the ring joint so that leakage of power past the joint is stopped and true sealed power is achieved. In addition, the Sealed Power Monitor No. 4 makes possible another important feature. A Sealed Power Sta-Tite ring does not creep in the piston groove because first the ring can not slip from its original position on the inner spring because of the Monitor No. 4 and second, the inner spring will not creep from its original position in the piston groove because it too is anchored by frictional contact between crimps against the back of the piston groove. In this way the Sealed Power Sta-Tite ring is made to stay in its place and remains that way.

Without attempting to go into the technical side of Super Drainoil design oil ring it is sufficient to say that the engineers of the foremost car manufacturers in America regard it as the greatest single advance in controlling oil consumption in today's high speed motors.

The Automotive Supply Co. is located at 127 North State street and is a distributor for Sealed Power Sta-Tite rings in Marion and vicinity. They will be glad to explain more about the advantages of using these rings in restoring your engine to new car performance.

They are also equipped to do motor rebores, valve refacing, piston grinding and pin fitting, and many other operations. They carry a full line of replacement parts for all cars.

December Notable Month in History of Chevrolet

December will go down in the history of the Chevrolet as a month of important achievements. By the Chevrolet Motor Co. the production of its eleven millionth car since the founding of the company and of the one millionth car to be built in the calendar year of 1935.

Chevrolet's eleven millionth car rolled off the line at its Flint plant December 1st of nearly 4,000 cars built that day at the company's 12 to 15 plants in the United States. This accomplishment of 1935 was a record for the company. In 1934 it was 1,000,000 cars in 1935.

The 11 millionth car of the eleven millionth Chevrolet was advanced considerably by the high volume production in 1935. The new 1934 model No. 10000000 having been built late in 1934. The change in the announcement time from January to November is credited to W. H. Hille, vice president and general sales manager with the company's record breaking sales and production in November.

The situation in this year, said Mr. Hille, is in sharp contrast with that which has been the rule in years past. Instead of slowing down in preparation for the introduction of new models, our plants are operating at full capacity or more than 100,000 units a month.

Continuation of heavy output is expected throughout December with a view to keeping pace with the demand which develops all over the country as reporting this means that dealers are awaiting the announcement to return to their jobs as they are usually doing at this time of the year. The army of Chevrolet workers in 24 widely scattered factories and assembly plants is already back on the job.

It means too that uncounted thousands in other fields of activity whose welfare is bound up directly or indirectly with that of the automotive industry find their economic situation better today than at this point in any other recent year.

Sketching Chevrolet's progress as a large volume producer, Mr. Hille stated that 11 years ago he required to produce the first million Chevrolet and only 13 years for the subsequent 10,000,000.

Cleopatra's nose —and yours!

If Cleopatra's nose had been a little longer, we are told, the history of the world would probably have been very different... such is the power of a lady's face!

In those days, beauty aids were matters of trial and error. Since then science has taught us many things about hair, eyes, teeth, nails, complexion... figure. Almost all the things that really count in a woman's appearance she can control, herself. And a self-made beauty, to our way of thinking, has as much to her credit as a self-made industrial leader.

Examine your own complexion today. Could it be better? Is your hair as soft and lustrous, your teeth as white, your eyes as shining as they might be? Have you made the most of every possibility? If the answer must be "not quite," do take the matter in hand... this very day.

For every woman deserves to be as lovely as she can. And a hundred advertisements are waiting to show you how! So—read the advertisements in this newspaper—they contain information you should have.

Married Comrades

BY ADLE GARRISON

Mary Still Worried About Noel After Restless Night.

THE feeling of bafflement grew upon me when I had left the room where I had told Rodrick and Junior that Rodrick's final punishment for his escapade, once clearing his slate entirely, would be his staying at home under the care of Williams while the rest of us took a drive to the famed White Mountain peaks.

I had expected joy at my verdict, for I purposely had made this final punishment as light as one as I could devise, but though they tried to conceal their emotions, and had given outward acquiescence to the plan, I knew that something about it had utterly disappointed them.

But I also knew that for a time at least I would get no inkling of the truth from either of them. Childhood is so sensitive, and all children have queer little parts among them.

Pigs Mean Cash For Kenton Boy Who Earns $262

By The Associated Press
KENTON, O., Dec. 22.—Pigs may be just pigs to some people but to Lauren Temple they mean cold cash.

Lauren, a sophomore in Kenton High school studying in vocational agriculture, garnered $229 an hour just for feeding hogs.

D. B. Robinson, the youth's instructor, displayed Lauren's project book and showed in black and white how pigs mean dollars for the lad.

Lauren raised the only ton-litter produced in his class this year. There were 10 pigs in the litter and at the end of 180 days they weighed a total of 1260 pounds. He sold them for $262.16. He deducted $120 for feed and overhead expenses, leaving a net of $142.16.

Not satisfied with this, Lauren went even further. He figured he spent 46 hours of annual labor in raising his hogs, which represented the time he spent in feeding the grunts.

Thus Lauren figures he made $229 an hour working on his pigs.

Theaters Arrange Fine Christmas Day Programs

MISS FROSS (Copperfield's Aunt Betsey) is portrayed by Edna May Oliver. SYDNEY CARTON is portrayed by Ronald Colman. ST. EVREMONDE (Copperfield's father) is portrayed by Basil Rathbone.

MR. STRYVER is enacted by Reginald Owen. CHARLES DARNAY is enacted by Donald Woods. LUCIE MANETTE is enacted by Elizabeth Allan.

Above are six of the principal actors in "A Tale of Two Cities," which will start a four-day engagement at the Palace Christmas day, and the star, Ronald Colman. The picture, acclaimed one of the finest of the year, was produced by the same studio that made Dickens' "David Copperfield," one of the screen's masterpieces.

Palace Brings Dickens' Story, "The Tale of Two Cities," With Excellent Cast.

Christmas day theater entertainment in Marion will take on the atmosphere of "event" magnitude, with as striking an array of pictures booked as have ever whetted the appetite of the motion picture fan.

The Palace has arranged for a pre-lease showing of "The Tale of Two Cities," starring Ronald Colman and made from Dickens' immortal story. At the Ohio Shirley Temple, the world's sweetheart, will be seen in "The Littlest Rebel," made from the famous stage play. The Marion will show "West Point of the Air," with Wallace Berry and Robert Young and "It's a Great Life," and at the State the feature attractions will be Zasu Pitts and James Gleason and "Speed Limited."

Programs Continuous

Theaters will accommodate Christmas day patrons by running continuous programs throughout the afternoon and evening.

Programs will start as follows: Palace and Marion, 1:15 p. m.; Ohio, 1 p. m.; State, 12:30 p. m.

"A Tale of Two Cities," is already on the list of "best" pictures for 1935, considered top entertainment from every angle. With Colman starring and a supporting cast including Basil Rathbone, Edna May Oliver, Elizabeth Allan, Donald Woods, Reginald Owen, Tully Marshall, Blanche Yurka and Claude Gillingwater, Jack Conway who directed "Viva Villa" is credited with having produced an entertainment gem.

One of the biggest acts ever built in Hollywood was the reproduction of the courtroom scene which changed the course of history. It was the Revolutionary Tribunal of Paris where, in 1793, the nobility and aristocracy of France stood on trial before radical revolutionary leaders and heard themselves sentenced to death on the guillotine.

As everyone familiar with the Dickens masterpiece knows, "A Tale of Two Cities" is the story of events in the lives of a little group of men and women in London and Paris during the period between 1785 and 1789, a period in which occurred the French Revolution, the fall of the Bastille and the birth of the French Republic.

Classic of Stage

"The Littlest Rebel" has long been one of the classics of the American stage, and the producers believe they have found a vehicle worthy of Shirley Temple's talents.

John Boles, Jack Holt, Karen Morely and Bill Robinson support the star, in this story of a child who went to Lincoln to secure the release from prison of her father, a Confederate officer, and the family's friend, Jack Holt, a Union officer. Shirley and Bill Robinson do several song and dance numbers together.

"West Point of the Air," made at the U. S. Army flying school at Randolph Field, Tex., has been shown in Marion before. "It's a Great Life" offers Joe Morrison, singing favorite, Rosalind Keith, Paul Kelly, "Chick" Sale, David Jack Holt and Baby LeRoy in the first picture based on life in the government CCC camps to come out of Hollywood.

Sportsmen and Pioneers Labeled Masters of Men

Editor's Note: This is another in a series of articles on conservation in Ohio written exclusively for the Associated Press by James W. Stuber, chief of the bureau of education, division of conservation.

BY JAMES W. STUBER

Written for The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 23.—From the day of Nimrod to Christmas 1935, the most masterful of hunters and men of the pioneer spirit.

The late Theodore Roosevelt frequently made the statement that "no nation facing the unhealthy softening and relaxation of fiber which tend to accompany civilization can afford to neglect anything that will develop hardihood, resolution and scorn of discomfort and danger."

With this in mind the writer would rather see his boy grow up to enjoy sports affixed with rod, gun and dog, than to see him playing checkers, ping-pong or mumble-peg, as a pastime.

Sports, however, must be a pastime, or a pleasurable interlude in the regular life work, rather than a business pursuit. Excessive game butchering is always repulsive.

Theodore Roosevelt also pointed out that James, the founder of the English branch of Stuart Kings, was a fanatic in his devotion to the chase, who boasted of his slaughter of wildlife.

The greatest stag hunter of the 17th century was the elector of Saxony. During the Thirty Years war he killed 80,000 deer and bear. Wellington was fond of fox hunting, but he did little of it during the Peninsular war. Grant loved fine horses and he loved to hunt but he devoted his attention to other matters when facing Lee before Richmond.

The division of conservation in any state has the responsibility of maintaining an adequate supply of game and wildlife. It is for that reason that such departments are created.

The first duty of such a state department is the preservation of game and fish life, and the second duty is to regulate the taking or harvesting of the crop of wildlife resources so that the surplus may be used without endangering the breed stock.

Recreation with rod, gun and dog naturally follows with all the attending benefits from the recreational as well as the economic standpoint. If it is right for the

Another Drop in Silver Affects Few Mine Issues, Chrysler, General Motors Up

By The Associated Press
The stock market was a little better today than it was yesterday, but it was still a very light day. The market was affected by a drop in silver prices, which was caused by a report that the government was going to sell more silver. This report caused a drop in silver prices, which in turn caused a drop in the price of silver mining stocks. However, the price of Chrysler and General Motors stocks went up today.

CHRISTMAS STORY TOLD IN CHURCHES

Special Services Mark Observance Write Gift Offerings Taken

The glad story of the first Christmas was repeated yesterday in Marion churches as large congregations prayed with the angels and shepherds for the birth of the Christ child. Service at the churches took the occasion for receiving contributions for the needy families and for the 'offerings for the nation's collection of decorations. Confessional services were held at the churches and many auditions last night the trees and lights were as backgrounds for carolers and pageants centered on the nativity. Many Marion families will find joy in Christmas because of the gift baskets sent them from churches received yesterday at 1 p. m. by the Lutheran, the Presbyterian, the Trinity, the Epworth and the First Lutheran churches. The baskets will be delivered today and Tuesday.

Capture of Defiance Sinner, Fatal Fire and Snowfall Other Memorable Week-End Happenings.

By The Associated Press

Two mysteries, a statewide snowfall and capture of the "phantom sinner" of Defiance made Ohio a lively state for news over the week-end.

One mystery was the discovery of the shrouded body of Mrs. Sarah Smith, 49 at the home of Charles Hamilton in Sugar Creek, Athens county. Mrs. Smith was Hamilton's housekeeper.

Sheriff Charles Stratton said Mrs. Smith telephoned him that sleep, was unable to recognize his children, and remarked:

"I had no dreams, no thoughts, no feelings. The four years have been no more than a blank in my life."
